We collect personal information about people we serve in a computer database called the Homeless Management Information System (HMIS). The information we collect helps us run programs, improve services, and better understand your needs. Some of the information we collect may be required by organizations that fund the operation of this program. We only collect information that is needed or required.

Some of your information may be shared with other organizations to coordinate referrals, housing, or services. Those other organizations also have privacy policies to protect your personal information. You have the right to tell us we should not make your information that is entered into the database visible to other agencies in HMIS.

If you have any questions or would like to see our privacy notice, please ask one of our staff.
